

Comparing and Contrasting Microteach I and Microteach II

As you reflect on Microteach I and Microteach II as a teacher and then as a student, compare and contrast them. In the area below, on the back of this sheet, or in your notes, jot down your responses to the questions below. In response to each question, you can include the comments of each group member or you can arrive at a consensus. There are NO right or wrong answers. You will then share your responses with the rest of the class.

From a TEACHER'S standpoint:

1. In your opinion, which microteach was easier/less time-consuming to prepare for? Why?
2. In your opinion, which microteach did you enjoy implementing more? Why?
3. As a teacher, you will always have to choose a mode of delivery (i.e., how you are going to teach your students a concept – direct teach, indirect teach, discussion, etc.) for each lesson. What are some factors that might influence your choice of one delivery mode over another?
4. What are some things you compromise when choosing a direct teach? What are some things you gain?
5. What are some things you compromise when choosing an indirect teach? What are some things you gain?

From a STUDENT's standpoint:

1. In your opinion, which microteach did you enjoy more? Why?
